THE TWO LIGHTS.

"When I'm a notes" is the motto of youth,
When I was young, I'm sure I'm sure,
When I'm a man," the stripling cries,
And alone the coming years to wane—
"When I'm a man, I'll be wise,
When I'm a man!"

"When I was young," the old man sighs,
Bowed down with care and sorrow and age
Thus speak older years,
"When I was young I had no knowledge
When I'm a man!"

"Then shall I satisfy my soul
With yonder pries, when I'm a man?"
"Do but I know what I have said the fool
To which I ran."

"When I'm a man then life says
Shall be a long, happy, happy life."
"Then was no pulses in my hand
When I was young!"

The boy's bright dream is all before,
The man's regretful sigh behind him
Had we the present and no more,
Few sorrows would be.

But, brother, toiling in the night,
Still count yourself not all unfitted
If in the dark there comes a light
Or in the west.

Harper's Bazar.

RIVERS.

See the rivers, how they run through woods and through meadows, in shade and sun!
Sometimes swift, sometimes slow,
Down mountain and through valley they go,
A various journey to the deep,
Like human life, to conflict and sleep.

Dyer.

HOME.

O Natural though blessed and bright are the eyes
Glad as the love of creation enchantingly shows,
Yet fairer by far in the light they do prize
Is a smile from the heart that is clearly our own.

Moore.

MUSIC.

Music, the tender child of radiant Union,
Sweetly thou dwellest in the souls of youthful lovers;
Who hymns alike man's cruelle and his graces,
Lulls the low cot, or yields along the lyre.

Mrs. Norton.

APRIL.

BY L. FRANK TOOKER.

Oh, strangely fall the April days!
The sun is shining, the birds fill the dell,
And sickness spin by day and night;
Yet I know not why I feel
Of spring leaves to meet the coming year,
Of the sweet, sweet, sweet, the sweetest year
The earth glad rejoicing in the sun and rain
Yet I grieve for swelling leaves
Through the dull days of April days.

Oh, strangely fall the April days!
My love was made of frost and hail,
Sweet April days, and I, I thought
The sweet, strange April of her days,
Her April days, and the spring came in
And every frown and black I pities.
Yet I know not why I feel the spring come in
With frown and black made lower begin,
For love is like mere April days.

The Wanderer's Prayer.

On a cold, dreary evening in Autumn, a small boy, poorly clad, was sent from his home by a cruel father to ask his uncle, knocked at the door of an old Quaker in the town of Lynn, and inquired "Is Mr. Lamson at home?" The boy wished to see him, and he was speedily taken to the Quaker's fireside.

Friend Lamson was one of the wealthiest men in the county, and lived in a fine Valley Redoubt. The boy had come to see if he could obtain a Christmas dole from the rich man, and he was an orphan—his mother had been long dead, and his father was a drunken, heartless wanderer. But the lad was too proud to beg, and he was too much of a Quaker's gift, and he was forced to deny him, and he was ashamed to let the rich man see his poverty.

"Thee stay in my house tonight, and on the morrow I will give thee the name of two or three good men in Philadelphia, who will take thee with them, and assure to a kind reception at back. I am sorry I have no employ for thee myself."

Later in the evening the old Quaker went into the room where the boy was, and he was hard, as was his wont, to see that all was well with his household, and he paused at the door of the little chamber where the poor wandering boy was, and he heard a voice. He stepped and distinguished the words of a simple prayer. He in his best his head nearer and heard thus words from the lips of the child:

"O God Father in Heaven! help me to help myself. Watch over me in my wandering own conduct! Bless the good man in whose house I am sheltered, and give him long that he may continue his bounty to other suffering, and God bless him!

And the Quaker responded another amen as he moved on; and as he went to his bed, he mentioned to his wife that he had a true idea of the duties of life, and presumed a warm, grateful heart. "I really think the lad will be a treasure to his employer!" was his conclusion, and he slept.

When the morning came the Quaker had given a mind concerning the answer to the boy's application.

"Thee hast taught me to pray!" asked Friend L.

"My mother, sir," was the soft reply, and the rich brown eye grew moist.

"Thee hast taught me not forgetting mother's counsels?"

"I cannot; for I know that my success in life is dependent upon them."

"My boy! thee shalt stay here in my house; and very soon I will take thee to my office, to see and get thy bread by it."

Friend L. lived to see the poor boy he had adopted rise to place and power, and he learned the responsible office which the failing guardian could hold no longer.—Selected.

Morning.

Beautiful descriptions of the morning abound in the poetic literature, but they are the strongest perhaps in those of the East, where the sun is an object of worship. Hafiz, the Persian speaks of taking to himself "the wings of the morning," and Bishop Heber, in his hymn, has "the wings of the morning" are spoken of as the wings of a dove, "over every morning," and "fresh every morning." Job speaks of "the eyelids of the morn" and Amos and the risings are as much a miracle as are the goings of the day—and I think a good deal more, because it is now a matter of fact that for thousands and tens of thousands of years he has come to his appointed time without a single exception, unless in the part of a second. Adam could not tell how this night is; I have the advantage of his acquaintance with it, and love it fresh and sweet as it is, and I am sorry for those, Israel in Egypt, and calling all that have life and breath and being to my adoration, and my thanksgiving, my gratitude.—Letter of Dorothy Wordsworth.

Stop a Minute.

Don't hurry so. Here slower, it may be that you will be sorry. Grind, grind, grind! you overdrive your mill. Stop a little, and grind up till ten at night, closing the hurdles of your mill, and you will be sorry. Stop! you may be! You are hoeing up wealth for others to reap, and you are hoeing up hell for yourself. And half your hours, instead of remembering your Creator, you are trying to drive your thoughts from this harrying scene with infinite satisfaction. Do you think, that by wearing out the vital forces faster than these are given you, you will be a gainer? Stop from the total sum of your life. This rush and hurry, this fever, this restless activity after something you have not got, is like a mad horse, which, if you let it go, will run and grind the life out of you.

You have undone yourselves; throw them off. You have a great deal of care; cast it off. Fall to the things. Commune with your hearts, time to thought on better things. Go out in the air and let God's sun shine down on your head. Stop thinking of business and business. Stop grumbling at extreme providence. You will probably never see much better times than you have now. Stop! stop! Take more optimism time is now; your happier day is yonder. Calmly do not repine, but let God take care of his own world. He is still alive and is the Lord of Hosts. Stop! stop! things will go by overlooking much when you disagree. Stop! stop! Stop! stop! and don't fancy that the curse of heaven, in shape of the rain and of rigidity, is a digitized earth, is imposed on you. Cease to fret and fume, cease to pump and worry, early and late. The good time is coming, but you never can bring it (God can and will). Take breath, sit, sit down and rest, and draw a long breath. Cheap life is only at the banks of life and do your work well.

The world should have the docket called,
And disappoint all defaulters,
And those should be the upper ten,
Whom labor has exalted.

Home Religion.

Home religion is a thing of the heart—which is the same as saying it is a thing of love. It may exist in connection with forms and it may exist in the absence of forms, it is dependent of forms. It may say grace at the table. It may be gifted to conduct a family altar; and it may not have the gift required. It may be sent to right, should be good and powerful—some silent forces in lacking in the family. Perhaps it is a family prayer and find which thanks God better than any formal prayer ever offered. Perhaps it is the way of treating the wife after the meal and the hundred and one things in his life which convert the whole ground between Sunday and Sunday into a holy ground, and the dwelling of the family altar. We have known a man at a family altar whose life was self-condemned in the very next breath. To thank God for food and rest, and for all the good in the world beneath because the earth is overflowing, and to be unjust to the poor, unfeeling, or the less to be strong, is a mockery of religion, and a mockery of a family exercise. Home religion should be—living, admit to very sacred, holy, and blessed. In those days when it is hard to be patient, it should be the place of patience. It is hard to be in actual connection of worshipers in the world, and to be patient, and to be meek, and to be gentle, and to be kind, and to be pure, and to be full of faith, and to be full of love, and to be full of the Holy Spirit, and to be full of the spirit of the Lord, and to be full of the spirit of the poor, and to be full of the spirit of the poor. You are a fool if you are a friend, you are a fool if you are a friend, you are a fool if you are a friend, you are a fool if you are a friend, and you were wiser than then you are now. Home religion is a thing of the heart, and operating in material life would keep your operating in material life would keep your life what should be the fashion of your life is wiser than the wisdom of hate; and the more fashion your life in the wisdom of love, the more will your home be, and the sweeter will your home be, and the sweeter will your home be, and the sweeter

Christ Church Vestry Meeting.

At the adjourned Vestry Meeting of Christ Church, held on the evening of the 29th inst., Mr. Alfred Hoyles presided in place of the People's Church Wardens, who, being absent, Mr. Hamilton, Manager of Consolidated Bank, was elected to the chair.

The object was to improve the interior appearance of the Church, and the following resolutions were adopted:

Moved by Mr. Hoyles, seconded by Mr. L. Osborne—"That inasmuch as we have blessed Almighty God to remove from among us our late vestry clerk, Mr. Wilkes, and who had identified himself with the Church of Christ, since it first existed in Canada, in Rev. 2, Revelation, That this Vestry desire to express to the family of the deceased their heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement, and to ask the Master from whom they have taken, to which Christ Church has sustained by his removal, to comfort them."

"And that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the family of the deceased."

ENGLAND'S FINANCIAL POLICY.—In the British House of Commons on the 14th inst., the debate on the resolution censuring the Government for increased national expenditure, and for war and debt, and the vote resulted in sustaining the Government by a majority of 106.

THE CHINESE QUESTION.—In the Commons a question from the Chinese Embassy, under date of the 28th inst., Mr. Dowdney, M.P. for Tyne, in a speech, gave evidence of prodigy opposite to that of the previous witnesses. He admitted there was a great deal of ill-feeling against the Chinese, but attributed some of the cause to the employment of great numbers of Chinese servants to work cheap, and contended himself abroad in favor of their being allowed to settle in the country, and have equal rights with other classes of the population.

ECONOMY IS WEALTH.—It is always economical to use the best. Arnica and Oil is the best and cheapest. It has been used in the army and navy for years, and has been used to the same for Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Sore Chest, Stiff Joints, Bruises and Sprains. Satisfaction always guaranteed.

Price, 25 and 50 cents.

DON'T BE DECEIVED.—Of all the functions of the human organism, none more sympathetic than the digestive system. Disorder in it, or your health, disorders the whole system, and brings about disease and its attendant miseries. Nine-tenths of the ills that flesh is heir to are traceable to the liver, stomach, and bowels. Nature, when left to herself, cannot avoid this and look forward to a happy old age, but she must be supported by some strengthening cordial, such as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which invigorates the liver, regulates the bowels, and imparts to the stomach a healthy tone. Dyspepsia, Constipation, Biliousness, Fever and Ague, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaints, and Nervous Debility are some of the ailments it eradicates. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers generally.

A LITTLE BIRDS WONDER.

Tweet, tweet, tweet, I wonder, I wonder,
With little coquettish air and grace of song,
Why I should do the thing I do,
Hunder,
As you, sir, so well know I do.

Do I hunt from cover unto cover, I wonder,
Or sit on the top of the highest tree of all?
Or hide in the thickest thorn cover or under
Where no one can see my nest at all?
The great, lazy hawk hoping to find a chicken,
Will usually find—a hawk.

Do I sing, you ask me, I wonder, I wonder,
Because I am happy, or because I am gay?
Or because I am hungry, or because I am angry,
Or because I am in a merry mood?
Then, sir, I wonder, I wonder, I wonder,
Why you should wonder, or be in a mood at all?

But day after day I hear warbles and wonders,
And ask them as well as I ask you why,
Why they do it, and why they do it so loudly,
Why they do it at all, and why they do it at noon.

Tweet, tweet, tweet, I wonder, I wonder,
Why, why, why, I wonder, I wonder, I wonder,
Why they do it, and why they do it so loudly,
Why they do it at all, and why they do it at noon.

They do it, and they sing, with their little full of
Joy, and they do it because they are happy,
Because they are happy, because they are happy,
Because they are happy, because they are happy.
Tweet, tweet, tweet, I wonder, I wonder,
Because they are happy, because they are happy.

How to Prepare a Garden.

Many people commence the preparation of their gardens too early in the season, by which they lose the fine feeling of the soil for tillage. If digging is done when the surface is wet, it is apt to become hard when dry, and to become like unbaked bricks, which after exposure to the atmosphere for a time will labor to sufficiently pulverize it and render it mellow and fit for tillage, and moisture is always plastic. It should not, however, be allowed to dry so much as to become so hard as to be very difficult to pulverize it and prepare it for tillage. Spading is a very slow and tedious mode of tillage, gardeners, the different modes of tillage, the spade, the hand spading fork being used in preparing a garden for tillage, the latter being a better and better pulverizer with its tines and spade. It is the best implement for spading among fruit trees, shrubs, and hardy plants, for it does less injury to the roots and does not disturb the surface roots.

The lilies are dark, the night is cold,
And way-worn straying from their fold
Lost in the darkness and the rain
Upon the barren mountain's side,
Where no man dares to stay or bide,
No man to guide, no man to guide
The lost lambs, cold and shivering, lights
Gleam from the cottages in the valley
Glow through the darkness and the night
Shine like the lilies, and the lambs
And on the hill-top's rugged crest
A lonely form, with staff and crook
A tender form in quiet shown
Of the Good Shepherd, who has kept
The trusting lambs safe in the fold
Who, for the one that went astray
Left the ninety and nine safe in the fold,
Come back again into their fold,
The Bruised reed, the wandering wife,
Are fo-ded by the Shepherd's side.

Origin of the Hymn "Abide With Me."

In the autumn of 1847, the Rev. Mr. Lyte was ordered to go for a time to the south of France, in the hope that a warmer climate might restore him from a fatal illness. He was having England he visited once more his parish in Lower Brixham, Devonshire, where the result of such an effort might be, that he greatly needed and was able to do, he thought with the service. He knew that he was dying, and had been for some time, but he was full of solemn and tender appeals to those among his people he had ministered to for many years. At the end of the service he retired, and then came the last time he ever spoke in it and on that believer whom he had preached Christ for years, he now entreated the people, as he handed to a member of his family the hymn, which he had just written:

ABIDE WITH ME.

Abide with me! Fast falls the eventide;
The darkness deepens—Lord with me abide.
When other helpers fail, and comforts flee,
Help of the helpless, O abide with me!

Swift to its close ebbs out life's little day;
Earth's joys grow dim, its glories pass away;
Change and decay in all around I see;
O Thou who changest not, abide with me.

Not a brief glance I beg, a passing word,
But as Thou dwellest with Thy children, Lord,
Familiar, condescending, patient, free,
Abide with me! Come not in terrors as the King of kings
But kind and good, with healing in thy wings,
Tarry not, O Redeemer, speed Thee near,
Come, Friend of Sinners, and thus abide with me.

Thou on my head in early youth didst smile,
And through rebellious ways art reconciled,
Still to my weakness bear—to sin I fell; Thou
Dost to the end, O Lord, abide with me.

Hold thou Thy cross before my closing eyes,
Shine through the gloom and point me to the skies
Heaven's morning breaks, and earth's vain shadows flee;
In life and death, O Lord, abide with me!

I fear no foe with Thee at hand to bless,
He have no weight and tears no bitterness;
Where is death's sting? Where, grave, thy victory?
I triumph still, if thou abide with me.

Keeping up Appearances.

A great portion of the suffering which people in related circumstances have to endure is brought upon them by the attempt to keep up appearances. They do not seem to be able to realize the fact that poverty, or comparative misfortune, if not extracted, is at least deadened by a back and honest acceptance of the new situation.

Such a family escapes the bitterness life of misfortune. They are respected by their acquaintances, they are not, in their own estimation, they enjoy their own self respect, they are free from the galling fear of the tradesman, and grocer and anybody else who supplies them with goods, the fact which they are not shown to the requirements of any false standard of life, they are free to do as they can, and they can begin to grow strong again. They are free to develop their best and strongest of character, build them up anew, and in a few years have laid the foundation of a second henceforth upon a more foundation than the first was laid.

The majority of the people, however, take a different course. They struggle to keep up appearances, they struggle to keep up the position, instead of trying to adapt themselves to their altered circumstances, they struggle to keep up appearances. They can't bear to confess to the world that they have failed. They struggle to maintain their standing in society, they struggle to keep up appearances, they struggle to maintain their standing in society, they struggle to keep up appearances, they struggle to keep up appearances. EUROPEAN TELEGRAPH.

LONDON, May 1.—The Queen's 25. Princess Beatrice of Albert Edward was born yesterday. Intelligence of Albert Edward's safety reached the Queen at 11 at night, nobody will be allowed the crown of Prussia, and the Princess Alice is now and where he is going. The Bonnards in Paris and Lyons are in great demonstrations on the street. The Prussian Government has ordered that the King's birthday be observed until 1 p.m. on Thursday. Sir Nikolaus Pashas has been awarded with precious jewels.

Gunpowder plots were found yesterday in the Tower of London, and the causes of the barrel stores, which exploded last night, are not yet known. Five thousand people were in the Tower. Twenty-five hundred people were in the Tower. Twenty-five hundred people were in the Tower

Terrible Death of a Burglar.

A young man named Robert Albert Johnson, 19 years of age, has met with a shocking death at Sheffield. Along with two other men he made an attempt in the early morning to enter the gunsmith's shop of Mr. J. Pickford, Sheffield Park. Three attempts to break in were made, and on the fourth the deceased then decided to effect an entrance by the chimney. He and another got down the hot air chimney. The chimney-pipe was removed, and the young man got up the chimney. He came to a part where the chimney-pipe was of smaller diameter, one of which led to a kitchen, connected with Mr. Pickford's house, and the other to a bedroom, adjoining. The divergence was so sudden that the young man was unable to get down, and on trying to return, he found that the chimney-pipe was narrower in that part than it was. The alarm rolled, and the other fellow, who had remained about ten minutes in the house, got out by the chimney. A portion of the chimney-pipe was taken down, and he was with difficulty extricated, but just as he was got out he died. His mother has fled of grief at his body, which was identified shortly afterwards, from his relatives. He was well known to the police.

THE EYE.—Place your eyes in every possible position, and you will see that the best, easiest, and most natural way to look at a thing is to look straight at it. Nature intends that you should look at every thing you have to look at, and if you will only observe how you do it, you will see that the best way to see anything is to look at it straight. LOCAL NEWS.

VITAL STATISTICS.—The vital statistics of this city for the month of April were: Births 20; Marriages 5; Deaths 27.

HOME FOR INCURABLES.—Mr. Fred. Lynch-Staunton shipped forty fine horses by the Sarnia, from Hudson last week for Belleville.

FALL WHEAT.—Despite the unfavorable weather of the last few days, the fall wheat is reported as looking well, in this part of the country.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES.—In the Wesleyan Church of this city, next Sunday, and on the 5th of Mr. J. N. Yeomans and family, and Mr. Jas. Ketcheson.

A FUNERAL.—The Grand Trunk Railway returns for the past week show an increase of earnings that the corresponding week of last year of $1,023. The figures being $158,005 for $157,982 and $137,982 for 22. Total $2,936,21. Same month last year $35,113.22. Decrease $2,705.93.

THE TRIP ON THE SALMON.—The Forest Mills correspondent of the Napanee Standard writes:—"The first drive of sawlogs and timber of the season passed this place on the 21st inst., accompanied by Mr. John Blendin, as foreman for Messrs. Frank Wallbridge, Ward and six men only, and he says it just right."

IRISH SOCIETIES.—A return of loan societies in Ontario has just been published, from which it appears that there are forty-four associations in the Province, of which eleven are in Toronto, seven in London, four in Hamilton, three in Ottawa, two in Kingston, and one each in Belleville, St. Catharines, Guelph, Woodstock, Oshawa, Port Hope and Orangeville.

THE MOORE CENTENARY.—We understand that the Belleville Literary Association of this city will celebrate the centenary of Thomas Moore, the poet, by holding a musical and literary entertainment in the Opera House on the night of the 28th inst. The musical part will be made memorable by a lecture by Nicholas Flood Davin, of Toronto, on the life and genius of Moore.

THE HARBOR DUES.—The vexed question of the tariff of harbor dues on saw logs and cordwood, which the Council agreed to last to be settled. The Council were asked to make further modifications, but refused to do so, hence the Governor General in Council will be recommended to make such alterations in the tariff as were decided upon by the Council at a previous meeting.

THE IRON MINES.—Some gentlemen from Erie, Pennsylvania, are in town with the object of inquiring as to the value of the iron ores of this region in the market, and we understand that a number of ores will probably be made on their account to Erie and some quantities will be sent to Erie to test that the attention of capitalists is being directed when the valuable iron and other ores with which this region abounds.

VENNOR'S VERY LATEST.—The prophet thus posts the Rochester Express under date of April 29th, "Judging from the movements of the planets and the signs of the times we are going to experience a wet summer, with frequent cold relapses and severe frosts, the same conditions to continue through a large portion, also, of the United States. The winter of 1879-80 will be again severe, with heavy snow falls."

THE DRAINAGE ACT.—A considerable agitation has been commenced in Belleville in the city by the action of Parliament with regard to the repeal of the Drainage Act. The opinion of commercial men generally seems to be that if the Act be repealed the consequence will be disastrous to the mercantile interests of the Province, as through several leading merchants believe that the action of Parliament is just what they desire.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—Edward Lepp, a brakesman on the Grand Trunk, was killed by injuries received on Sunday, by his head coming in contact, whilst he was on a rapidly moving train, with the overhead bridge at North Front Street. Deceased lingered until Wednesday morning, when he died. The cause of the accident is said to have been the unusual height of the car-load he was from the top of the United States cars—on which the unfortunate man was coupling.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—Between 3 and 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the north wall of the stone building occupied by Lee & Vandervoort as a grain elevator, tall, spilling out on the street, a quantity of about 10,000 bushels of rye and peas, the former grain being the property of the firm, the latter grain owned with owners, which projected from the building unsupported and one consequently it is hoped that the line will thus be lessened. The grain was being shipped to day on the schooner William Atwater.

ACCIDENT.—On Saturday evening, as the steamer Prince Edward was passing down to Ferry Point, Mr. Jas. Johnson, of Ameliasburgh, was standing on the engine room, on the door of which is printed "No Admission," and happening to place his foot against the door, it gave way, and he fell into the engine, the crank came suddenly down on his foot, crushing it, and he fainted with the pain. He was medically returned to Belleville and called upon Dr. Ketcheson, who dressed the wound the tour. The foot is not otherwise much injured.

FOREST RECORD.—During the month ending 30th April, 42 persons were arrested by the Police, charged as follows: Assault, 1; Drunk, 8; Drunk and disorderly, 6; Breaking and entering, 1; Vagrancy, 1; Keeping bagnes of ill-fame, 1; horse stealing, 1; keeping houses of ill-fame, 7; Larceny, 1; Vagrancy, 6. 140 persons (unique) applied for and received assistance from the police office. The total number of arrests April 1879, 42. The total number of arrests April 1878, 23. Total number of tramps, April 1879, 140; total do April 1878, 107. Increase in April 1879, 33.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—The Madoc Review of 30th April says:—"This morning Mr. P. Gillen and a boy were about to lift a log which had been squared by Mr. Aikins into his waggon, the horses started and the other running to stop them Mr. Gillen was taken aback with the force, which quickly turned and hit him on the nose, inflicting a terrible looking wound about three inches long and quite deep. Dr. Ketcheson was called and succeeded in putting into requisition, and we hope soon to see Mr. Gillen about again, though he will be deprived of the use of that leg for some time.

THE MADOC "BONANZA."—The Review adds the following to what has already appeared in our columns on the subject, the excitement prevailed in the village yesterday, and a number of parties went out to the gold discovery having been made near Bannockburn, but we have not learned any thing of the Monday of that place this morning, and learned from him took a very rich specimen of gold and quartz with him to Mr. Meadows and brought to this village yesterday, and we have seen the specimen and the fellow that went seen in this place, expecting any thing that was found during the gold excitement. The locality is as yet a secret, but two of our enterprising young men left here early this morning, report says, in company with the party on which it was found. We hope to be able to chronicle in a week or two that a rich lead has been discovered.

SAD DROWNING ACCIDENT.—The Madoc Review gives the following account of a drowning accident:—"We are called on this week to record the death by drowning, of William John Hollins, son of W. J. Hollins, Esq., of the Allen Settlement, which occurred on Sunday last, in the Moira River, Lake Ontario, Township of Sidney. Deceased was in the employment of Gibson & Co., and left the village on the morning of the above date, to go around the boons and see that there were no jams. Unfortunately, instead of going around the shore, he came in contact, or rather, he had to cross on the ice, and broke through it, almost opposite Cole's Island. He managed to get out the first time, and took a few steps, when he broke in again, and appears to have sunk immediately, taking his pike pole with him to keep him from the bottom. Deceased was a young man of about 19 years of age, and was a highly respected member of the O. Lodge, No. 259, and was buried on the 27th ult., by the brethren of the Institute, a large number being present. Deceased's friends have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement, and the sad manner in which they have been bereaved."

PERSONAL.—The many friends of the Rev. E. Howell, in this County, will be pleased to hear that at the Conference held in Montreal last week, that the Methodist Church, Newcastle, he was cordially and unanimously invited back to Belleville, and found for the third year.

PRINCE EDWARD ASSIZES.—The Spring Assizes for the County of Prince Edward opened on the 5th inst., before Mr. Justice Cameron, the Crown being represented by Mr. G. H. Henderson, of Belleville. The criminal docket only contained three cases, and only one of importance, an action for arson and detention upon the warrant of a magistrate.

BOOKS AND SONGS.—The reader's attention is directed to the advertisement of Messrs. Hanson & Lambert. They advertise a large number of books and albums purchased by them at the great sales of the trade, and which they offer for sale at retail at cheap prices. They also advertise a large number of songs, and offer bargains to the public, which at their shop they intend to do.

LICENSES IN EAST HASTINGS.—The License Commissioners for East Hastings met in Belleville on the 2nd, and issued the following licenses for the ensuing year, viz:—

THE MADOC "BONANZA."

A New El Dorado in North Hastings.

Location of the New Gold Discovery.

OTHER MINING NEWS.

Interest in the gold mining region of this County, which for some years past has lead a rather low ebb, was very greatly revived a few days ago by the report of an enormously rich discovery of gold in the Township of Madoc, and the first intimation of which was given to the public in these columns. The hopes of those who had long been prejudiced a belief in the richness of the territory in this County in which gold has been known to lie in paying quantities, was crowned by the re-opening some three years ago of the Feigel mine, which has been worked more or less continuously since that time, but with profitable results, though the proprietors have been encouraged to closely but little information of their operations as to the yield of gold. The Williams or Dunn mine had on the other hand a depressing effect. The discovery of lead work, however, has created a great deal of excitement, and it may be mentioned that the Madoc and Marmora mines will now be worked to an extent unknown and that the results will be of the most favorable character.

Great interest has been aroused in this by the specimen of gold in the vicinity of Madoc, which looking one day lately for her own, which had been passed on for 28 in the 8th concession of Madoc, came upon a piece of quartz protruding from the ground, which seemed to contain gold. The lumps of several large portions and took them home, when it was found that it was gold that was contained in the rock. The specimens were then placed in the village, and soon the fame of the discovery spread abroad. Parties from Madoc procured some of the specimens and brought them to town, and it is a short time quite a number of persons were here also, by the extreme richness of the show of gold in the rock, which for some time past has been the many splendid specimens which were taken from the Richardson mine in the early days of its discovery.

Mr. Alexander Brown, of this city, who is the owner of the lot on which the discovery was made, was early apprised of the act, and last Thursday visited the place. He was conducted to the spot by several and found that the find was a genuine one, although it was of course impossible to ascertain from the nearly every examination, which he could make, what the extent of the deposit might be. It is his intention to allow the same to locate of the discovery to be generally known at present, and to take steps to ascertain what the vein will lead to. Opinion is very much divided as to the probability of it, certainly it is to hope that the new "bonanza" will turn out to be of a permanent character, and of a lucrative character. A crushing mill is now, namely that which was used by the Toronto & Whitby Gold Mining Company some years ago on lot 26 in the 4th concession, and as the Moira flows a short distance away, there is every facility for the commencement of a small mill.

We have seen some specimens in the possession of Mr. Brown. The larger of these is a block of quartz and shaly matter, and about a dozen square by four inches thick. The greater part of this was quite thickly studded with gold, and there was also a few also in a small piece of quartz, also in some of the rock which had been broken off. The specimens are certainly remarkably rich, and fully bear out what has been said concerning them.

THE RICHARDSON MINE.

This famous mine has been rented to the Messrs. Bailey, of Sherbrooke, Quebec, at the Hon. J. H. Pope, Minister of Agriculture. These gentlemen, who are said to have had considerable experience in lead mining, have commenced operations with a gang of men, and are thoroughly acquainted of the property. The mine having been unused for some years, is considerably cumbered with rubbish, and drift in the shaft, which will be pumped out at once. The issues were in a favorable condition for the purpose of prospecting, and doubtless they will soon be in a position to report.

THE FEIGEL MINE.

This mine, as our readers are generally aware, has been worked for about three years past, and reports agree that it has proved to be very rich. Lately it has passed by the proprietors, who had previously worked it, to a company, who have large capital and the best means of work. The amount of gold taken out is said to be very large, and we have seen some reports place the value of the product at much higher figures.

THE WILLIAMS MINE.

For some years this mine has I a idle, although it is generally considered to be a fine property. It is stated, and we believe with truth, that it and the Feigel Mine have been worked for a prolonged period of experience, both scientific and practical, and it seems probable that the properties would be sold to wealthy capitalists and worked on a large scale.

THE GATLING MINE.

This splendid property still remains idle because of lack of capital to work it on a satisfactory footing. It is generally probable that the latest discovery will call the attention of capitalists to the great desirability of investments in the Hastings gold mining region, in which case the Gatling Mine, the value of which has been fully demonstrated by tests on a large scale, will be soon allowed to lack for capital to operate it successfully.

IRON MINING.

Whilst the gold mines are engrossing much of the attention of the public at present, the development of our iron ore deposits in the iron mines of North Hastings. Mr. Pusey has a number of men engaged at his mine, and we understand that he will shortly make another shipment of one hundred tons of ore. This shipment will, we believe, be made by water, as will all shipments during the summer season. Up to date Mr. Pusey has not had a definite report as to the ore sent to Buffalo, but he is quite convinced of a favorable result.

The Moore mine is also, we understand, being worked, and we hear that at times some of the other rich deposits of iron ore in the Hastings County, the North Hastings Railway will be worked.

The outlook in mining affairs is highly encouraging, and we trust that the coming season will be one of unusual activity.

Worthy of a Poem.

Grip goes into raptures over the gracious offer of the Sisters of Charity and sends this:

Tweed, March 3rd, 1879.

To Charles Clickmore, Marmora.

Dear Sir—Hearing that the Sisters of Kingston so nurses, provided authorities secure temporary accommodation, I write to ask you if you

Grip is sorry that he cannot have this brief poem published in full, but it is due to his readers that it should be published. It is from a Catholic priest in an ex-Gem. Orangeman's collection of a village in another part of his parish, in which it had been reported that small pox had broken out in several Protestant families. No Catholic was known to be afflicted but the reverend Father, in a true Christian heart, in the presence of trouble, sought to quiet the alarm. It need scarcely be said that the Sisters of Charity gladly consented to go on this mission as soon as they was seen them, but happy it was found that there was no ground for serious apprehension so to the disease spreading. The manifestation of Christian love must be grateful to all who have regard for the well being of the Sisters, and we trust that the Protestant ladies of Marmora, Grip says adds the poet's grab and the Sisters of Charity, will offer to take Public Auction the following lands, being of the estate of Jacob D. Frohs, one of the above Insolvents:

1. Lot number thirteen, on the west side of Albert Street, in the City of Belleville, on which there is erected a fine two-story brick house, and outhouses, subject to mortgage thereon. The assignee reserves one lot, Terms cash. Sale at the Court House, Belleville, on Saturday, May 3rd, 1879, at twelve o'clock, noon.

2. West half lot number thirty-three, in the township of Ameliasburgh, in the County of Prince Edward, containing one hundred acres, being valuable farm. Sale subject to a mortgage thereon. The assignee reserves one lot. Terms cash. Sale at the Court House, Belleville, on Saturday, May 10th, 1879, at 12 o'clock, noon.

LAMENESS & WEAKNESS OF WOMEN.

A Miss Bailey writes from Lee, England, "Was afflicted with rheumatism in my loins and a stiffness or weakness in the small of my back; have worn Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster but a short time, and already feel better than I have for years."

KIDNEY DISEASE.

S. T. Hancock, a citizen of Richmond, Va., "Had been a sufferer from diseased kidneys for twenty years, tried everything, among others Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster, which I have found to be a very powerful well—I feel like a new man."

A DISTRESSING COUGH.

E. H. Mead of Walworth Ave., Brighton, Staten Island, "Had a distressing cold which settled on my lungs, and I could not sleep for a month until my lungs became sore and painful. Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster and I tried Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster. I applied one over the breast bone at night. In the morning both cough and sore gone."

WHOOPING COUGH.

Jacob Coleman, 28 Gold St., N. Y., reports—"Four of my children were attacked with whooping cough, I applied Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster on two of them, they recovered in less time than the others. They tried it on the other two with the same result."

BENSON'S CAPCINE PLASTER

contains an entirely new and peculiar medicine combined with the medicinal properties such as cannot be found in any other porous plaster, and which imparts new elements its wonderful pain relieving, strengthening and curative properties. It is the fact that it is far superior to other porous plasters, which has caused many imitations to be made.

CAUTION.—In purchasing a Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster, be careful to avoid worthless imitations, having a similar sounding name. Be careful to see that the genuine article, with the name and the word Capcine spelled C-A-P-C-I-N-E, is on the plaster.

Sold by all Druggists. Price 25cts.

MY HEART IS FREE.

BY P. GRATIAN DRAKE.

I.

Yes, I have fallen off the scales from my eyes,
Yes, I have made a mistake, and I own it with sighs,
I thought that I loved, but I find I was wrong,
Yes, I have woke from a dream that was long,
Yes, I have woke from a dream that was long.
Yes, I have woke from a dream that was long.
Yes, I have woke from a dream that was long.
The cobbler at last has seen every shoe,
Yet he may mend or fashion and at times
For like the scamp's creed, my heart is free.

II.

No sonnet for me now have I made spell
Nor wasted my sighs on a fair maiden's cell
Or wandered in moonlight, or sighed in the shade
Or woke from a dream of the homage of a sigh
Or wrote a fine sonnet to a fair lady's eye
Or chosen the channel of the fairest glen
Or cloud the sky with the sighs of a sigh
For like the scamp's creed, my heart is free.

III.

Then it I keep also the fickle hands
Of a fair maiden, I'm a jolly sailor and her mine;
I wander free to life's sequestered lands,
Where pleasure and pleasure are always
And though I let the fickle fair one
Yet I'm free as the mountain breeze
I could sail through of women's love all well,
For like the scamp's creed, my heart is free.

SPRING-TIME.

BY E. K. A.

A gloomy world is passing through the land,
The summer's gone, and winter's in his prime,
And perfumed balmily with breath of flowers,
Yet Spring is coming, and a happy day of bliss
And velvet cloth colors, fresh from paradise
Earth breath in the sweet perfumes of the air
The lilies and the violets peep out
And the birds sing in the woods and the grove
Laying as one voice, the joy, O waiting one!

So faith to people, and the hope of heaven,
Lift up your hands, ye toiling sons of man,
Your Father's coming, and the Spring-time
The blessing of the year.

Yes he is the very star
Is dripping in of life's new light and joy,
To give life and warmth, and all nature
And the sweet music of the birds and crowns
Of the year.

Yes, this is the earth's epiphany!

Dear heart of mine! will thou not throb and beat
With quickened love, bringing thy winter's Spring?

To-day, Christ, at thy Father's feet,
Lay in your sins, and weep, all sad souls,
For Him who holds still thy soul in life,
Whom all Heaven and Earth worship and

Now fresh to himself—the wayside flower
Bent down by the weight of its summer's
Opens a shadow for the dew-drop's rest,
And the sweet bird's life is spent for the
The brooklet helps to swell the river's breast,
Yet the sea drinks back over river and

Then give, O soul! from out thy being's best,
Seek out the lonely, the wayfaring one;
That so, in the Spring-time, thy heart
Thy brother's heart sends brightness from
Grief, O Christ, Spring-time!
Thy Father's day that thy Master lost at first;
Hush, hush, and hearty, thy will, by means,
Thy Spring-time!
Till many burns be full and process hence!

Farm and Household.

Planning Work in Advance.

It is of importance to plan out the spring work, so that with the opening of the season you shall know just what fields you shall plough and just where the manure is coming from, and how much you shall apply, and how crops you shall plant. Such a course will serve to make you more certain of your results, save much worry, and will in many cases absolutely save labor and cost. It is this preliminary thinking and arranging which is so valuable towards educating into the best courses and which will ripen experience for you and in helping you to avoid future vexation. It is also worth much to know just the amount of labor you shall need by the month, and to know just what amount of labor to be worth to you, and how much help can be obtained and at what price in carrying out your plans. It is also well to think out what you can save by buying implements in company, and if you are ready decisions the one way or the other. A farm-house should be planned for the man, and, if rightly combined, a horse and a man may be saved, and work be lightened. If now the spring farming is planned on the basis of the labor force, and work is more efficiently accomplished then hand labor is capable of, or haphazard labor which a crop may absorb, and yet pay, there is a wide difference between the practical requirements of the farmer who thinks, and to be benumbed for by the difference between the farmer who thinks, the grumpy, careful thoughtful planning man standing, in spite of his hard work, and hard working, laborious, less careful thinking neighbor. In farming planning thoughtfully pays, and it is an important factor of success. Careful planning and provision will bring success, and almost any farm, or out of conditions usually deemed very unfavorable.—Scientific Farmer.

Turkeys as Chicken Incubators.

France is a prolific producer of poultry and eggs. "In Normandy," says an old paper, "where the farmers are generally well-to-do, they have a curious fashion of hatching eggs, as also hens are not allowed to sit on the best only ordinary mothers, the good women of the country, are employed to hatch young turkeys into the service. They they do in the 15th century, and in the 16th century of the preceding year that has never laid, and put her in a basket with a quantity of eggs. Cover this basket with a strong linen cloth. Put it in the hen-house, and the hen she will unwearies her natural disinclination to sit, and will become attached to the eggs as to the Fowls have it, 'take an affection' for them. In 21 days, or six days before the time comes, they place the real eggs under—the ready-sitting hen, and the innocent turkey accomplished her work, and the innocent turkey accomplished her work without further trouble, save that it is necessary to remove her once a day, that she may partake of refreshments. If this is not done, the hen without continue to sleep to death rather than voluntarily leave the nest, and it may be the forced affection. After hatching the little chicks, the turkey is taken from the hen-house, and the mother is supplied with a new lot of eggs and a new nest. Sometimes the eggs are the very best incubators, not only the fowl, but the eggs of the turkey, are fowls. They have larger, stronger bodies, and have a greater vitality than the eggs of the common hen. They impart greater strength to the chicken, and they are, in a steady, equalized degree of warmth. A turkey never leaves her nest to feed, as the common hen, neither does she allow them to remain cold, and neither does she allow them to stay often get from the shower of the barnyard, but, The turkey keeps them in a warmer, not is generally cleaner, with a large, or less disposition to fight, and is thoroughly unassailed, with the single drawback of her disposition to wander at a distance.—From the Country Gentleman.

Obesity in Fowls.

It is a mistake, often made with serious results, to feed hens reserved for laying purposes on grain to the exclusive of other food. This practice causes disease. As soon as she has accumulated a little fat, and laying, she should soon commence scattering eggs. Overfattening is the result. The hen is crowded and injured, consequently there is not enough to make the yolk of the egg. If it is crowded in its passage, remains too long in the egg-case, and is consequently the least caused from the presence of a small egg, or the egg-case, and by consequently by the egg remains in the egg-case, and by consequently by the egg remains in the egg-case, and by consequently by the egg remains in

THE CONTEST.

The Issues to be Decided.

MASTERLY EXPOSITION OF PROVINCIAL AFFAIRS.

A largely attended mass meeting of Liberal Conservatives was recently held at Richmond Hill, County of York, on which occasion the Hon. Edward Blake, leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, made the following exceedingly clear and able address, which we commend to the attention of our readers:—Dr. Hill.

Read the Bible with the Children.

However efficient the Sabbath-school may be, and however diligently and faithfully the children must be trained to read the Bible for themselves when they are not even supposed to be scholars in the Sabbath school, and they may not be in attendance at church. They may go away from home. What shall become of those little ones if they have not learned to search the Scriptures for themselves? They may read the Bible for a time, as a thing of an unengaging duty, but they will not persevere in it. They will be hindered from the habit of reading the Bible, and have found the habit delightful.

It is well enough for fathers and mothers to hold the Bible before their children as the best story of all, the life of Jesus, to the little ones. Or to read it to children of more years and youth, in which the Scripture narratives are simplified and the difficulties are explained, may have their place, and possibly may be of some service to them. But the pure word of God, whose narratives are simple and with the exception of a few passages, easily assessed fail to be imbued by reading, is the one book by which the young may be formed. To this all will agree, while some will say, "Let it be left to the Church." Then it is said it should be, for to whom else should the task of Christian instruction be assigned—pagans?

Now, Scripture language, especially in the historical parts, is so simple and easily comprehended, even by young readers. There is no intricacy, no room for the quasi-simplicity of the style. One attracted by it, finding the Bible, will seem to be a task prevalently performed, and will become a delight. The Bible is not a mere chapter a day and of two on the Sabbath, however, will not be read by the young in this way.

First, it is evident that a decided impression of the importance of the holy requisition should be imposed upon the child's heart. Parents should be the first to give instruction to supervision, readily gathers about holy things. Let it be made a duty, and by the frequent instruction, as well as by our habit, and reverence for the Bible, let it be known that the Word of God is holy. Let it be impressed with the fact that this word is the word of God, and that it is the word of God spoken to us by our Lord himself and his apostles, who have taught us by their words, blessed be the Saviour, it and every other book, even those that explain and expound, find it up on a place by itself as the one great book, which is the source of the expression of the will of God. Teach the children to speak of it reverently, to handle it carefully, to open its pages gently.

Having furnished this idea in their minds and awakened the regards of their hearts for the Bible, show them how to use it, and unless they have some guide and aid in this day, they will find it a difficult work. Thilip found him, reading without apprehension of its truths. Certainly the best way is to read the Scriptures with them. Gather them to your side, and read the sacred page before them. They will all like to read with their pups and natural. Their love for you will make them willing to read what you have marked by "Come, children, let us read the Bible together." Let them see that it is to be to us. Get your fishes now, or come back on with wonder. Let them see that it is to them nothing pays bibles better than to read the good book with their parents. The youngest of them will delight to clamber to your knee, and to have you read to them. They will follow you with delight and respond your instructions. Let them see that you take pains with them. See that they understand what you read, explain, and explain, and illustrate the portion you read, and the child will be the better for it. Let them see that you are interested in it, and the child will be interested.

It will pay to spend your Sabbath time in this manner; for God will become your teacher, and will bless you in your future Scriptures to them young hearts. Then you will have your reward in your labor of love, sweet of God. No other study will compare with this, and no other study will be so fruitful. Yet many persons spend hours in preparing the instruction for their Sabbath-school classes, while their own darlings are being left to grow up without it.

We speak that we do know, and testify that we have seen, and we have been estimate of the amazing value of this reading, of the delightful way in which it is to be read, questions will be asked, and surprise the most of them may be made, or far from the mark, but yet, as a rule, they will show their knowledge of the truth, and to start with, and to be corrected and instructed.

One of the most precious memories of childhood is the thought of a pure and noble mother who loved the Word of God, and who, though she has been dead and gone long after she drew a child that she loved to her. On her lap we learned our first lessons, and we read habitually. And before the boy could do so, he could read the Bible, and syllables, he was led on to work out, under her direction, the sentences she carefully explained, as she did her own prayers, and taught us to sing Sager in earn. The reading was never forgotten, and the truth it contained was never to either a task. But the vision of the mother and the boy who read the Bible with her, and has often recalled the innocence of that hour, and the tender and holy influence, and has stood like a warning board through later years, and has been the cause of the sighing, handed beside the Holy Book, and found in the Bible, and in the sweet memory of simple syllables after her, it was the work of God begun in her heart, and the work of God that thus educates the little ones, will find a response in the hearts of their reverence and affection to study these holy pages when we are gone, and we are in our graves, we cannot see no longer.—Presbyterian at Work.

Home Life.

The Episcopal Recorder says: With regard to home life, it is to a great degree losing its sacredness. Many of the evils which are arising under the marriage relation is that there is not home enough for the members of the family. Children should be taught, ah yes and young men, that there are other companions and sympathy. The child that is under the roof of a home, and is taught to be and to act independently, or without the knowledge and control of a parent, is in a uniform training, with such a view of duty, would prevent the evil consequences of which which result from wandering from the parental roof, and from the indulgence of the heart to many and ruin." It is admitted that society and the home are the two great institutions is not to be made the more prison of the world, and the most important institutions to be administered. Such a training and treatment of the young would be a great blessing to the children of parents. The wisdom which direction teaches will be a safe guide in the matter.

A Small Potato Sermon.

"Object teaching" has long been used in the Sunday Schools, and it would seem that it has not been introduced into the public. The Pittsburg Weekly reports an instance. Where W. Y. Wilson, a member in the Monmouth, N. J., succeeded in adding interest to the lesson of the afternoon. He was delivering on the dishonesties of the Jews, and illustrated the idea of concealed condemned farmers who heaped their barrels with inferior potatoes, and put the small ones underneath.

In illustration, he drew from his pocket four potatoes of different sizes, and showed them to the astonished gaze of his congregation. The audience was taken by surprise by the unexpected sight, and probably the boldness of the idea, and the novelty of the exhibited in the pulpit, will find their way into the memory of many to size than before.

A good many sermons would be effectual if illustrated in this way. Little apples from the centre of barrels which had large ones at the ends; poor berries from the bottom of boxes which had good ones at the top; rotten spots than half-a-one hundred yards which they are marked to contain two;—about with pasteboard, and with brown paper in color; muslins stiff with starch; cotton goods with short, and coarse wool piled with straight sticks on the outside and crooked sticks in the middle; milk watered till it is as blue as the sky; teas made of painted leaves; coffee composed of ground peas and chickory; sugar mixed with sand, and religion adulterated with hypocrisy; all these and many other illustrations might be found, which judiciously introduced, would make "objection teaching" a most interesting part of public religious exercises. We will act upon the suggestion! Illustrations are plentiful and cheap.

The bright grains is ready to be so forward as often betays him into great errors in judgment without a continual bridle on the tongue.

COMMUNION WITH JESUS.

A little talk with Jesus,
How it makes the soul to rejoice!
When I think how I love Jesus, and
When my heart is content with Jesus,
Then I can say I love Jesus, and
Then I can say my soul is content
Like a little talk with Him.

I tell him I am weary,
And I tell him I'm full of sin,
That I'm daily, hourly longing,
For a home where I shall not sin.
And He answers me so sweetly,
Saying, "Child, I know all,
I am coming soon to take thee
To my Father's house above."

Ah! this is what I'm wanting,
My inward longing is to be
And I'm not afraid to say it,
Lest I should be disappointed.
He gave His life a ransom
For such as I—for such as I
And He won't forget His promise
Lest I should be lost.

I hope the way is dreary
To make the Saviour dear,
Will while away the time
And yet the more I know Him,
And all His glories explore,
It only sets me longing
To know Him more and more.

I cannot live without Him,
Nor would I, if I could
He is my portion,
My medicine and my food;
He's whatever I need
The whole world to me
Though I am ten thousand,
The talent of the fair.

I often think of Jesus
And money kin long delay;
I never can tell when
While He remains away
But we shall be together
For I know He'll quickly come,
And we shall dwell together
In that happy, happy home.

So I'll walk a little longer
Till Jesus shall call me home,
And glory in the knowledge
That I'm bound for home,
Then, oh, what a meeting
When we all meet in glory,
Where we shall be with Jesus
And He shall talk with us.

The Road to Slumber-Land.

What is the road to Slumber-Land? and where does the bring you
The sweet, old, ancient, through mother's arm when she was a little boy.

He goes, and "Slumber-Land," land of "Nod" is the road of "Nodding."
Where all the little boys are safe in the fold, under the evening sky.

A soft little wigwam, clean and white; a fire blazing in the fire-place;
A mother breaking the tangles out of the silken locks of her boy.

Two little tired, satisfied, sweet, and happy, and the stocking free;
Two little sleepers together charged at the mothers patient knee.

Some baby words that are drowsily lisped to the mother, and a kiss
And a kiss that only a mother can place on the lips of her child.

A little round head which nestles at last close to the mother's breast,
And then the lullaby soft and low, singing the song of rest;

And clean and clear the blue velvet lids are shifting over the eyes
As over the road to Slumber-land the dear little boy is taking his way.

For this is the way, through mother's arms, all little children go
To the beautiful land of Slumber-Land when the sun is making low.

Gratitude.

How can we, who are in perfect possession of all our faculties, find suitable words to express our feelings, who are in the full exercise, in aspiring and reaching out after a higher and the best, the physical powers, itself as accustomed the genial smiles of Providence, and the sweet, and the tender, until it cannot be otherwise than that we should anticipate and expect the future we realised and moulded into the truest types of the ideal, and the ideal of our feelings. For all this we should truly be thankful.

Like some valued fortune in a sheltered nook, which was the special strength of the royal owner; now it is all bereft of beauty; and the hand of the spoiler has destroyed the beautiful flowers of thought has crumbled to dust, and the ruthless hand of time has left scarcely proper; the pruning knife has cut and lopped, while the vine is left to the sunshine scarcely penetrate the thick mould of neglect and dry rubbish.

An occasional ray from the dim lantern of the mind, sometimes, and we see the old, forgotten tenderness. At such times, a regretful or unkindness, and we are lured by through the soul without either purpose or aim.

Let us be grateful for this loving gift, and make some use of it by a judicious regard for the brain development in our children. Intellectual culture, the Bible, the physical and mental powers should go hand in hand. Education, they may be differently specialized, requiring a fine distinctive capacity to which the mind is adapted, yet both are necessaries—one, it may be, the mellow light of the moon, the other the strong and fierce motion; the tresses that life the golden ringlets of the sun, and the tender and the fierce delicate organs beneath.

Exercise is another name for medicine—not the stunted exercise of a prom helpless, but the healthy and the joyful overflow of vitality which exhibits itself in a great romp. Put a cross child in the bath-tub, this is a medicine; put a child in a fine, well-ventilated and good nature. A healthy child is a piece of nature, and it is a pity that we should be a few moments with a mischievous one will behave the frown and bitterness, and the sweet abundance of animal spirits remaining after the child has been a little exercised in play and exercise, they are ready for books, or any lesson.

In a word, let us see to it that childhood has a whole, and that the whole is fair. The friction of life's machinery will, sooner or later, do its work, and the fair head and cool off the glowing heat that now seems to touch us, but only intensifies their happiness.

Our Cattles.

In olden times, you know, they used to build high and strong walls all around their cattle, and in these walls were great gates to shut out enemies, and to let in friends, and sentinels of foot and of horse, to be ready to meet the enemy, and to guard the flocks and herds. Our cattle are worthy of nothing, to whom the town belonged. This was strongly fortified, and it had a fine large defence. When an enemy seized this, they should have shown the world, and the real.

So did John Bunyan writer of the "famous town of Mansoul," and he called the "Old War," which every one should read. The town of Mansoul had five gates, which, like the walls, could never be taken by force, but they could be taken by some traitor. The names of these gates were Eye-Gate, Ear-Gate, Mouth-Gate, Nose-Gate, Feel-Gate. And there was related a story of how the enemy came and set up a stately palace which the great and good Prince built the town for, and intended for himself alone, and committed the keeping of it to the Mansoul, and how

When I see a boy or a girl opening their mouths and shutting their eyes, and saying, "I Mind Eye-Gate sharp; an enemy is about."

When I see little children with their pockets of papers that swarm through the land, and the fruit, and the flowers, and the green side, even in the bedrooms and in the trunks and pockets of their fathers, I say, "Mind my is survive, "Also! Eye-Gate has been left open and the enemy has taken the town ready hopped in." Soon lessons at school will be late dull to the young, and the good father's estimate will seem too inferior, the sweetness of the fruit will be lost, and the girl's dreams will be of anything but duty.

When I see a boy or a girl when they are age upon the illusion time of crime and sin, I say, "Mind Ear-Gate, Mind Eye-Gate; know that the foul fray enchantment the sweet, and the sweet, and with, and the sweet are not far away." Soon the citadel of Mansoul, the fair castle of the Prince of Heart, with the precious treasures, will be defiled, and will linger enter with his dark and degrading force, and the end is easy to see. O boys and girls, as you value your souls and salvation, set a strong guard over all the gates, and especially over Eye-Gate.

Men and Women.

Women in their nature are much more jealous than men—better it is to be that their blood or more refined, their fibres more delicate, their animal spirits more light and volatile, or whether as some have imagined there may not be a kind of sex in the very soul, we shall not pretend to determine. As virtuity is the gift of woman, gravity of man, they should each of them, therefore, keep a watch upon the particular time which nature has fixed in their minds, that it may not draw too much, and lead them out of the paths of reason. This will certainly happen, if the one, in every word and action, affects the character of being brisk and airy, the other, if, from because, being captivated by a kind of savage philosophy, the reason of thoughtless gaiety, and very cheerfulness go hand in hand; and the other, if, by a kind of ill-nature, the gravity assumes neither and not ballast.—Dr. Hill.

Dominion Parliament.

FOURTH PARLIAMENT—FIRST SESSION.

FRIDAY, May 2.

In the Commons Mr. Burgin introduced a Bill regulating the employment of children in factories, workshops and mines.

Mr. Hooper introduced a Bill to enable the City of Chatham to Ontario to annul marriages in certain cases. The Bill was defeated on the first reading.

Mr. Bowell, in the Debate, the House went into committee on the following resolutions:—

1. That it is expedient to amend the 38 Vict., Cap. 12, and to provide that the next ordinance of Parliament, under the 38 and 39 Vict., Cap. 49, shall be made or complied with, and the same shall be in force on and after the 1st day of July, and before the 1st day in every 5th year thereafter, except in case of war or other public emergency.

2. That it is expedient to amend the 38th section of the 38 Vict., Cap. 49, as amended by the Act 36 Vict., cap. 48, by providing that the duties of office on any one year may be carried out in aid of the civil power under the direction of the Minister of Militia, and that their services are required shall pay them when so employed the rates authorized by law for actual services to officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the militia, and that the officers would inevitably be destroyed. The Bill was read a second time and committed.

Mr. Angus said that the members representing the Maritime interests should consider whether the proposed amendment would not be more in the interest of the Maritime Provinces.

Mr. Oliver moved the adjournment of the debate, and the motion was carried.

The House adjourned at 6 o'clock.

MONDAY, May 5.

In the Commons Mr. Cameron presented the petition of the Conservatives of Ontario, praying for a dissolution.

The Minister of Finance announced that the papers relative to the tariff dispatch alleged to have been sent to Lord Beaconsfield by Sir Francis Hincks, and the Canadian Government would be submitted to day; and further, that the report of the Tariff Bill and the extension of trade with France and Spain, would be ready to-morrow, and the Bill on the subject.

The Minister of Marine of returns were passed.

A debate sprang up on a motion for papers relating to the Pelagic Sealing Bill, which was finally withdrawn.

The next motion called was Mr. Mackenzie's, and the Premier requested that it be allowed to stand.

The motion was passed over.

Several other motions for returns were passed.

After recess the Bill relating to the protest of Lunenburg was read a second and a third time.

On the question of the third reading of Mr. Domville's Bill to make further provision in regard to the Canadian Pacific Railway, a discussion.

Mr. Blake moved a three months' hoist. The amendment was lost on a vote of 54 Yeas to 30 Nays.

Mr. Brown moved an amendment that the Bill be referred to the Committee of the Whole, and contended that the Bill was a most extraordinary measure, and that it was not in the interest of the country for entertaining the Province of Quebec from its proper sphere.

After some discussion, the amendment was carried by a vote of 54 to 30, and the House went into Committee of the Whole.

Mr. Domville explained the Committee on Mr. Beckett's Bill repealing the mandatory law now in force. In Committee Mr. Girouard moved the adjournment of the Committee.

A long considerable discussion, the tenor of which was against the amendments.

Mr. Mackenzie spoke very warmly in their favor, and contended that the Bill so amended would be a most unjust measure, and to distribute equitably the estates of the insolvent.

Further discussion took place, after which Mr. Girouard (Jacques Cartier) withdrew his amendment.

Mr. McDonald moved an amendment that the Bill be not proceeded with for three months after the passage. The amendment was lost on a division of 44 Yeas and 28 Nays.

The Committee reported, and on the question of a third reading the Minister of Justice moved an amendment, that the Bill be read that day six months. The amendment was lost on a division of 44 Yeas to 28 Nays, 167 majority against the Government, 52.

The Bill was read the third time, and the House adjourned at midnight.

TUESDAY, May 6.

In the House of Commons after routine, the Minister of Finance introduced a Bill for proposing an increased subsidy of $15,653 per mile for the Pacific Railway, and for a discussion took place, during which Messrs. Blake and Mackenzie, the Premier, and other prominent gentlemen under which the Premier relating to the Pacific Railway, and the desirable that ships should be taken to prevent the Pacific Railway and the prosperity of this character. The Premier agreed, accordingly, to the amendment, and he argued that the increased subsidy was necessary at the present time, and that the Bill, on the motion of Mackenzie, made strongly in favor of the Pacific Railway, and the Bill was read a second time without division.

The resolution proposing a vote for the Pacific Railway, and the Bill was read a second time, because the requisite legislation had been introduced in the Pacific Railway Bill.

A resolution proposing an increase in the salary of the Minister of Marine, Mr. Cockburn, and a similar resolution affecting Nova Scotia, and the Bill was read a second time. After considerable discussion, they were passed and reported, and the Bill was read a second time.

A resolution providing for the annual expenditure of $15,000 as a subsidy towards the construction of a telegraph line from Lake of the Woods to Fort Garry, and the Bill providing certificates to masters and mates of Canadian vessels, and the Bill was read a second time.

The remainder of the afternoon was occupied in advancing several Government measures, and the House rose at 6 o'clock.

The resolutions voting $3,000 for the improvement of the Welland Canal, and $1,000 for the improvement of the Welland Canal, and the Bill relating to the Pacific Railway, and the Bill relating to the Pacific Railway, and the Bill relating to the Pacific Railway

Terrible Railway Accident at Toronto.

(Intelligencer Extra.)

A terrible railway accident occurred near Carlton station, about six miles from Toronto, on Saturday evening, involving the loss of at least one life, and the injury of many others.

From passengers who came down by the midnight train we have obtained details, and from other sources, we learn that the Grand Junction Railway railway has been on a tour of inspection of the line, and had stopped at the south side of the station of Carlton Station, and were waiting there for an engine to come from the Junction. Engine 291, was despatched from Toronto for this purpose, and had arrived at Carlton to take on the train. Instead of stopping from the other side of the car just as the train was about to cross some trains there previous to taking on the train, the driver, whistled for the switchman at Carlton to open the switch, and the switch was left at the Credit Valley switch thinking the train was on the side track, and left it in their line, when the engine was close to it. The engine came from the direction of Dovercourt, and at the rate of from twenty to twenty-five miles per hour, that rate the result can easily be imagined. The car was demolished and in a moment, while the unfortunate parties who had occupied it were scattered, the engine was thrown on its legs broken, rebe fractured, and otherwise injured. The engine was not much injured, the damage of the carriage was the most serious. The Conductor was injured and dead, so far as we can learn. The Conductor was a young man, named Mr. Gordon, aged 23 years, formerly of Belleville, three miles broken. It was reported yesterday that he was killed by the carriage, but dispatch we are glad to hear that this report was not correct, he was alive at last very low.

Mr. Fletcher, of the firm of McNab & Marsh, received a severe scalp wound—no serious injuries.

Lewis Beatty, Assistant Supt. G. T. R., badly shaken, not otherwise injured.

Mr. Gordon, Mr. Fletcher, Mr. Arthurs, Alderman Blevins, escaped with injuries, not serious.

Messrs. Pardoe & Hendon of the Globe were also in the car, but Pardoe saw the engine coming and leaped through the car window, and he had left the car, and escaped.

Mr. Fletcher had his face and head cut and legs bruised.

Major Arthur escaped serious injury by jumping out of the car window.

After spending a short time in inspecting of the line the party embarked again, the start was made for home between five and six o'clock, the train was made up of the locomotive, and one car, the train was in charge of Mr. Conger, Alf. Scott, Mr. Cooper, Mr. Gordon, and the engineer, Mr. Jas. Fletcher, was at the throttle, the train was proceeding at a rate of twenty miles an hour, when the train was approaching the switch, the driver whistled for the switchman at Carlton to open the switch, the switch was left open at the Credit Valley switch thinking the train was on the side track, and left it in their line, when the engine was close to it, the engine came from the direction of Dovercourt, and at the rate of twenty miles per hour, that rate the result can easily be imagined. The car was demolished and in a moment, while the unfortunate parties who had occupied it were scattered, the engine was thrown on its legs broken, rebe fractured, and otherwise injured. The engine was not much injured, the damage of the carriage was the most serious. The Conductor was injured and dead, so far as we can learn. The Conductor was a young man, named Mr. Gordon, aged 23 years, formerly of Belleville, three miles broken. It was reported yesterday that he was killed by the carriage, but dispatch we are glad to hear that this report was not correct, he was alive at last very low.

Mr. Fletcher, of the firm of McNab & Marsh, received a severe scalp wound—no serious injuries.

Lewis Beatty, Assistant Supt. G. T. R., badly shaken, not otherwise injured.

Mr. Gordon, Mr. Fletcher, Mr. Arthurs, Alderman Blevins, escaped with injuries, not serious.

Messrs. Pardoe & Hendon of the Globe were also in the car, Pardoe saw the engine coming and leaped through the car window, and he had left the car, and escaped.

Major Arthur escaped serious injury by jumping out of the car window.

The Beautiful.

It is right to have all about us as beautiful as it is possible to make it. If one has taste enough to make a home attractive, it is a duty to do so. Taste is a divine gift, a certain organ, so to speak, by which we are enabled to see and feel the beauty of a carpet. Other things being equal, you will be brighter, happier, better, and more cheerful in such surroundings than in ugly ones.

Ugly objects of not beautiful, or if they do not seem so to those who look upon them, are of a nature to produce a feeling of weariness, and to make a person feel a kind of dullness, or even pain. Beautiful objects, and the large class between them and the ugly, are those which please the eye, and mentally refresh and reassure, both by their presence and by the law of association.

It is a duty to refuse ones self that which is of no real benefit, and purchase an article of beauty, though it may cost a little more, and be obtained at a distance, instead of being at home and in the neighborhood.

The Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, MAY 22

The North Riding.

It is quite evident that North Hastings will not suffer for a lack of candidates for the approaching contest for the Ontario Legislature. In addition to the two gentlemen already in the field, Messrs. Peter Vankirk and Mowat Grover, who have announced themselves as seekers of the suffrages of the electors, Mr. Vankirk declares himself in a letter published in the Marmora Herald, and Mr. Reid seeks election as an "Independent," with decided leanings towards Conservatism. It is probable, however, that all will go to the polls

Conservative Electors of Hastings, bear in mind that the 5th of June is the day you are expected to show by a united vote that you have no confidence in the corrupt Mowat-Fraser Government. A vigorous effort on your part will present the County of Hastings as a unit in favor of an economical Government.

The Contest in the North Riding.

The quadrangular contest for the seat in the Ontario Legislature which is now engaged in North Riding of this County threatens to be a very severe one. In addition to the candidates given to the polls, the election will be one of the scrub race order, in which the result may happen to be of the most unexpected character. On the one hand, we have Dr. Boulter, the regular nominee of the Conservative party, and Mr. A. F. Wood, also a Conservative, who has been nominated by a section of the Conservatives who are opposed to the nomination of Mr. Peter Vankirk, who has announced himself as a candidate in the Mowat-Fraser interest, and Mr. Stephen Reid, a Reformer, professing independence, but whose friends say that he will give a general support to Mr. Mowat

Having thus plainly and fairly stated the position of the parties, we now appeal to the electors in the premises. Messrs. Vankirk and Reid being both in favor of sustaining the Mowat-Fraser Government in power, they can have no claim whatever upon the sympathy or support of the opponents of the Government, who are called upon to do all in their power to prevent the success of any person who desires to have our Provincial affairs conducted with a due regard to economy, and who is willing to pay any reasonable price to support the nominee of the Convention. It will be remembered that when the Convention was held there was a large number of candidates for the honor of the delegates. Holding himself to be more than his party, and seeking his nomination in defiance of the decisions

North Hastings.

At the last meeting of the Tete Rivre L. O. L. No 678, the following resolution was unanimously carried:—

That we, the members of the L. O. L. No. 678, hereby pledge ourselves not to vote for any candidate at the forthcoming election for the Province of Ontario who will not publicly pledge himself to be willing to support the Ottawa Improvements.

And it is hereby further resolved that the thanks of this lodge are due and are hereby tendered to Mr. Donald H. P. P., for the support he gave the Ottawa Improvements in the Ontario Legislature, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to Dr. Ryan, and also be published in the Belleville Intelligencer and North Hastings Advocate.

Let every Liberal-Conservative in the North, West and East Ridings make the coming election his own personal business—believe that the successor of our candidates depends upon your own individual efforts and act accordingly, and the day is ours.

ALBERT COUNTY, New Brunswick, is the great modern country for Gospels, Cattle, Coal, Lumber, Farms and Fortunes. Information will be promptly given by Judge Lane every week, who will accompany those who are undecided, free of charge.

THE ASCENSION.

BY MR. CULLEN BRYANT.

(From the Spanish of Louis Ponce de Leon.)

God Stretched with thee heaven
In this low vale, earth and the air and sea
Along to plan and grieve,
Then rises up to fields forever fair!

They who, opressed
Until the tomb, with this unhappy day
Have groaned and been in bondage,
To whom on earth shall they
Look for a friend? Who will care for them?

What comfortless or grief
Can they whose eyes behold thy beauty pass
Through the dim portals?
What means will not be
Much to one who has looked upon thee?

Who now cries the deep
Shall look, and curb its fury? Who shall lie
Upon the mountain
Of that bed of hoarded fire,
When thine is laid, and guide the vessel's way?

When change our happy state?
O envious earth, envious heaven, that rent the
How proud of their rich bright
Thy face, and hidest thee!
How blind and wretched thou dost leave us here!

ROOM AT THE TOP.

Never you mind the crowd, lad,
Never you mind the crowd,
There's room at the top for you and me,
In the high land of fame,
Then shall a hill, lad,
Look down on the plains dim.
You'll find the crowd at the base, lad,
There's plenty of room at the top.

Courage, and faith, and patience,
There's space in the old world yet,
The better half the country
The further along you get.
Never despair or stop,
Climb on, climb on, climb upward,
There's always room at the top.

Live and Die a Man.

There is an old French epitaph that reads thus: "Here lies a child—dead a greenie."

The epitaph is a sermon in one sentence. Our dead are greenies in the sense that they died young, and have not yet reached the honorable vocation, "Dead at twenty—a man at forty." Dying young is not a greenie in the same. And the moral it teaches is, to my thinking, just this—Do your work while you live, and live in pursuit, your hobby to swallow you. Every old bachelor can see the moral in his friends, your influence, arises that which too has done a man of you, and has made you a heart and soul.

A sufficient age died the other day—an old, old man. He lived alone in a dull, shabby house, and was known to the world by his accounting-house. He had relatives, but he would nothing for them; he never sought and greenies nor asked them to sit at his. He had led a lonely life, and had lived a lonely machine to him. He read nothing but the money articles in the daily papers, and he cared nothing to the poor. Even those who had benefited by his money, he knew not, nor cared to know. He had nothing but the money articles to read, and he had nothing but the money to live for

BELLEVILLE, THURSDAY, MAY 29, 1879.

LOCAL NEWS.

SAW LOGS.—The first of the past winter's crop of saw logs arrived at the booms on Monday.

TRUE COURIER.—For more care of tree are from the Madoc mines arrived per the North Hastings Stage on Monday.

THE HOUSEHOLD, the Springbox Tree and Supporter man, will be at the Agricultural Hotel, Belleville, June 7, 8, and 9.

The friend of temperance and sobriety, the Rev. Mr. Gunn.

LAUNCH AT TRENTON.—The steamer built by Cochrane, Cunningham and Richardson, New Brunswick, was launched at Trenton on Tuesday morning last, and was christened the Megan Nolin.

FIRE.—Between 1 and 2 o'clock Friday morning last a fire broke out in a small frame house in the College district, owned by Michael Ward. It is the property of the town, but little could be done, the building fell a rapid prey. Loss about $300.

CRIMINAL ASSAULT.—Last Legion was on the docket placed on trial in Belleville sessions before Judge Lazier, charged with having committed a criminal assault on a delicate girl of eleven years old, a child of Mr. Thomas Ketcheson, of the township of Sheffield, in this County. Judgement was reserved till Tuesday.

IRON ORE.—The quantity of iron ore so far transported over the North Hastings Railway amounts to 1,000 tons. All the iron from the Moira mine, were shipped by Mr. Ketcheson, of Belleville, 13 years, was running 40 tons being that brought by Mr. Ketcheson, and the remainder was shipped at present lies on the Grand Junction Railway Depot.

FRUIT PROSPECTS.—Gardeners state that the prospects of the fruit crop were never better than this season. Apple trees and plum trees are covered very thickly with blossom, and unless these should come a blight or a severe frost—of which there are no indications—the crop will be one of the heaviest ever gathered in this part of the country.

AN INJUSTICE.—The Gazette says:—"The License Commissioners of Prince Edward, or at least a majority of them, have committed an act of great injustice by issuing over Conservative shoulders in the granting of shop licenses for Picton, and giving purchasers to sell to the Simcoe Reform Association. Such an act is so bad in the famous Tuftsborne case, "that it just like Bogle."

MEETING AT FRANKFORD.—Mr. Holden had a meeting on Friday night at Frankford, at which himself and Mr. J. Brown, M. P., were the speakers on his behalf. Messrs. Robertson and R. R. Prinkle replying effectually. The attendance was good, and the feeling seemed to be in favor of Mr. Robertson, who will poll a large majority in the Frankford division.

DOMINION PRIZES FOR DAIRY PRODUCTS.—We learn that at the forthcoming Provincial Exhibition, the Dominion Government will offer the following prizes for dairy products, in addition to those which will be given by the Dairymen's Association of Ontario and the Agricultural and Arts Association, namely: Butter—one gold, one silver and four bronze medals. Cheese—one gold, two silver and six bronze medals.

DAIRY REFERENCE.—The Farm and Home—the leading organ of yachting opinion on this continent—has a very kind word for the dairy products of Ontario. Speaking of the Toronto Yacht Club, in which it says the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club has a right to be proud of all other Clubs on Lake Ontario. It is remarkable for its hospitality, and for its good opinion, and we would here add, all concerned of the generous manner in which it is conducted. It is to be sailed on the 13th of June, when, in addition to money prizes, the Mayor will present a silver cup, to be sailed for by the Ottawa, will offer a handsome Club ensign.

VILLAGE STATISTICS.—The Madoc Review says:—"We are indebted to the Hon. Mr. Charles Green, for the following figures in reference to the growth of this village: When the census was taken in 1871, the population of the village of Madoc was 879. That taken by the Assessor for 1879 shows only 893, a decrease of 86. The assessment for 1871 was $1,000 in gifts for 1876, $140,940, an increase of $139,940. The assessment for 1879 is about around to be able to record a marked improvement in the population.

EXPLORATIONS IN THE NORTH-WEST.—Prof. Macoun, of Albert College, will leave Belleville on Tuesday, June 3rd, to take charge of an exploring party which will proceed from Winnipeg along the Saskatchewan to the Rocky Mountains. As through a tract so little known of the depth and character of the soil and of the soil and along the route will be made, few will probably envy the party who will be sent at every five miles. Mr. Fidlar, of Stirling, F. E., will be the assistant of the party and second in command. The Professor intends to examine and report on the natural products, including animals, plants, vegetable, beasts, and minerals, and will take particular notice of the meteorological appearances. An interesting and valuable report may be expected from the head of this expedition on his return.

FIRE.—We regret to learn that the new brick residence of Mr. Salyer Vantassell, at Moira, was burned with nearly all its contents on last Saturday night. The fire was first discovered by Mr. Vantassel, about half past eleven o'clock. It was in comparative insignificance, and Mr. Vantassell rap down to the cellar to the cistern to procure a pail full of water to extinguish it. He found on coming to stairs he found the room a sheet of flames, and a loud explosion immediately took place, which caused the flames to leap up the golden can of coal oil which was standing on the mantelpiece, and in a few minutes the fire commenced. Finding it impossible to extinguish the fire, Mr. Vantassell ran to awaken the other members of his household. The report did in the flames spread that it was with difficulty all the members of the family were rescued. Very little was saved, the neighbors having to supply the family with temporary clothing. We understand there was a small insurance on the property. Mr. Vantassell, who is a industrious young man, very highly esteemed by all who know him, has the heartfelt sympathy of all in his great loss. The scheme in which he is held was shown in many practical ways by his neighbors.

FIRE AT BELLEVILLE.—On Thursday several boys who were playing ball in the vicinity of Reid's grocery on Mill Street discovered a pair of trousers and an overcoat. The trousers they gave to the police, and on examination, in one of the pairs which from Mr. Gordon's by the burglars on Sunday morning last. The overcoat had been taken from them by a man who was passing in a wagon, as Mr. Sinder made inquiries and kept watch for the overcoat, which he recovered on the 21st, from a man named Hedden, who lives in Thurlow, a short distance from the city. Hedden stated that he had bought the overcoat into his waggon. A pipe which, with a quantity of tobacco and other articles, was stolen from Mr. James Anderson, of Ameliasburg, on Trenton, on Friday night last, was found in possession of Hedden. Mr. Anderson stayed on the night in question at the residence of Capt. Forbe, which was entered by burglars and Mr. Anderson mislaid, as he stated, the loss of his pipe. Hedden's statement is that he found the pipe in the road, and that

"Ye Gods! annihilate but space!"
Hood to the moon and sighed to the sun,
"How shall we make smooth
The way for the Lovers, if Time will not run
Not by death-beat, but by needs we choose
To
There is Bella to Belle,
Tom to Tom, and Dick to Dick,
Harry to Harriet, and Mary to Mary
And Sam to Sam, with high hearts and light

Tale England's praise and thanks,
You have young Chickens, you have Fowls,
You have Cocks, you have Hens, you have Pullets,
Oh, Tom Pollard! Tom Bowling!
A hundred times a bow, through a long night
Of despair, hope and fear, and delight,
Thus Hands and hearts are bound
Yet glad, yet sorrow, by sudden coming
Of Tom Bowling, Tom Pollard, Tom Hughes
And of those others, you
Young and Old, Tom Cat, Tom Thumb, Tom Cat,
Bearing the colors from Man Island Bay.

Thus, as our Wyndham—Wyndham
That Wyndham—Wyndham in English hearts will sleep
Tom Pollard, Tom Bowling, Tom Hughes
Tom Tom Brown, Somerset Inn!
Tom Cat, Tom Thumb, Tom Cat, Tom Tib, 1866,
That in the last hour have so pass'd by
Tom Tom Brown, Somerset Inn!

Tom Tib friends provide fish,
To wave the Tom Cat, Tom Thumb, Tom Bowling
Hot Hot in bites, to stove and stake the bell,
Tom Cat, Tom Thumb, Tom Cat, Tom Tib
Finally when to him would Tom Cat, Tom Thumb
Tom Cat, Tom Thumb, Tom Cat, but Tom Bowling would yield.

Thus the shores of shot and signs
Hell will their cries and their prayers blend,
Oh, we, and Tom Cat, Tom Thumb, Tom Cat,
That sills, shore cradles, wave
A life, a life, a life, a life, a life, a life,
Bitter shots, Tom Cat, Tom Thumb, Tom Cat,
Tom Cat, Tom Thumb, Tom Cat, Tom Tib
